

July 2025

NEWSLETTER

Welcome to the first issue of the ISLE Project Newsletter! In this inaugural edition, we introduce the project's purpose and share the exciting first steps of our collaborative journey toward more innovative and inclusive learning environments across Europe.

About the Project

The ISLE Project addresses the need for high-quality and inclusive primary education across Europe by reimagining learning environments through innovation and sustainability. By bringing together a network of teacher education providers and stakeholders, ISLE fosters a collaborative community to reflect on and co-develop effective educational practices. Through research, professional development, and policy engagement, the project aims to empower educators and inform reforms that support equitable, green, and future-ready learning systems.

Project Highlights

The ISLE Project officially launched with a successful kickoff meeting held at the University of Cyprus in Nicosia, on May 15–16, 2025. Partners from across Europe gathered to set the foundation for our shared goals and upcoming work on enhancing primary education systems.

What's Coming Next

The next major milestone for ISLE is our participation in ICICTE 2025, where the project will be presented to an international audience. Join us at the Minoa Palace Resort in Platánias, Crete, to learn more about ISLE's vision and early outcomes.

www.icicte.org

Partner in Focus

We are proud to introduce the University of Cyprus (UCY) as the coordinating institution of the ISLE Project. Based in Nicosia, UCY is a leading academic and research institution committed to excellence, innovation, and social impact. As project coordinator, UCY provides strategic guidance and ensures strong collaboration across partners to drive forward ISLE's mission of transforming primary education through innovative and sustainable learning environments. Learn more about the University of Cyprus: <https://www.ucy.ac.cy/> ✉ Stay connected: For now, reach us at isle@ucy.onmicrosoft.com. Stay tuned — our website and social media channels are coming soon!

